

WELCOME TO NEW STAFF!

RE-ELECTION RESULTS

CAROL KIMMIS

A sophomore student from the Institute of Education, Carol Kimmis, was elected to the post of teachers' representative on the Student Council, last Thursday.

A graduate of Sherbrooke High School, Carol has long been a student active in school affairs. During the years she attended high school, she was director of women's athletics and class president in her senior year, while participating in the Student Council and Red Cross organizations. She also found time to be the high school's social convenor and to take an active interest in its dramatics' club while occupying outside executive positions.

During her first year here, she was active on the Green and Gold and Royal executives. This year, she is president of the recreation centre, the first girl, it is rumoured, to hold that position.

When asked to comment on her election as education councillor, Carol first said: "I'd like to thank the people who supported by nomination. I will try to fill my position to the best of my ability."

She congratulated her opponents on their excellent campaigns and said in conclusion: "I hope that the enthusiasm and spirit of the students is going to continue throughout the year."

CAROL PHENE

Carol Phene, a third-year home economics student, was elected Home Ec. representative to the Students' Council in last Thursday's re-election. She is a graduate of the Gault Institute in Valleyfield.

While in high school, Carol was active in every aspect of student life. During her four years at the Gault Institute, she took part in the Student Council, the Red Cross organization, inter-school sports, the school annual as assisting editor, and the dramatics club.

She was a W.A.A. rep. in her freshman year at Macdonald, in addition to taking part in inter-class sports and the College Royal. In second year, she was once again active in the Royal and, at the same time, participated in the Green & Gold as costume director. The class skit and play also occupied a great deal of her time.

This year, Carol arrived early on campus to help organize orientation activities. She has also taken on the position of assistant director to costumes for the '63 Green & Gold.

In an interview, earlier this week, Carol extended her thanks to all the students who had supported her in the elections and expressed her promise to do her best to carry out her duties on the council.

Commenting further, she remarked: "I am very pleased to see such an improved interest in all phases of student activities this year and, for this reason, I am proud to represent my faculty on the council."

She concluded by saying: "I would like to congratulate my opponents, Elaine Hill and Jane Hall, on their excellent campaigns."

S.T.S. ELECTION TIME ON CAMPUS

Students of the Institute of Education go to the polls from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., today, to elect this year's executive of the Student Teacher Society. The campaign posters, which lent a colourful splash to college-building corridors for a few days, have been taken down thus marking the end of the candidates' campaigns which opened Monday.

On that day, the teachers met in the Assembly Hall and were introduced to those running for office. Barry Stevens, chief returning officer, read background sketches of the candidates, who, in turn, spoke briefly to the gathering. The election slate is as follows:

Treasurer: Linda McKellar, Barbara Elliott, Douglas Grant;

Secretary: Daphne Sanderson, Valerie Rose;

Second vice-president: Grant Morrison, Mike Stirrup.

The two presidential candidates, Margaret Ann Farmer, a second year diploma student, and Richard Lafferty, a member of the 2S class, were introduced by their campaign managers, and they delivered short addresses.

Miss Farmer spoke of her previous experience in S.T.S. activities. She was 2nd vice-president in her freshman year and as acting president this year, became aware of the need to make S.T.S. a power on the campus. The most important point of her platform emerged as her desire to initiate the awarding of a bursary to a student going on to third year McGill.

Rick briefly mentioned his previous experience working with people and emphasized that he would be willing to devote time and energy to the position if elected.

All candidates were unanimous in their wish to see everyone get out and vote. It is hoped that the student teachers will indicate their willingness to lend support to the S.T.S. by making a special effort to get to the polls today.

ANNUAL AWARDS ASSEMBLY TUES.

Our Annual Assembly, at which public recognition is given to students at our college who have been granted awards due to extraordinary academic achievements, will be held at 3:45 p.m., on Tuesday, October 23rd, 1962, in the Assembly Hall.

Dr. Cyril F. James, Principal of McGill University, will address the student body and present all medals, including the Lieutenant-Governor's the Stewart's and the Macdonald's.

It is reported that eight students who have been granted the status of a "University Scholar" by the Senate of McGill will also be given presentations by Dr. James.

It is both hoped and expected that all students will make a special effort to attend the Assembly. In order to enable them to do so, all 3:30 lectures have been cancelled on that day.

PROF. HAWES

R.O. Hawes is our new professor in Animal Science. He was born in Bangor, Maine. Professor Hawes spent his early schooling life in Hampden, Maine. He received his B.Sc. (Poultry) in 1956 from the University of Maine. From 1958 to 1962 he was a graduate assistant in the Poultry Department at Penn. State after he received his M.Sc. from the University of Massachusetts in 1958. In September of 1962 his Ph.D. was conferred on him.

Professor Hawes is married to the former Miss Alice McKinstry of Chicopee, Massachusetts. They have two sons. Professor Hawes is an active member of service clubs as well as being a member of Poultry Science Association, American Poultry Association and The American Genetic Association.

Professor Hawes has three main research lines which he hopes to pursue at Mac. He hopes to get work done on the genetics of blood types in egg stalks and the economic factors attached to this work. He is also studying the reproductive physiology of turkeys. He is doing performance tests of two and three way strain crossings in meat stalks.

We of Mac wish Professor Hawes the best of luck in his work and hope that he will enjoy life at Macdonald.

H. T.

PROF. MACKENZIE

Mr. A.F. MacKenzie is our new professor in the new Soils Department. He was born in Elrose, Saskatchewan. He received his B.S.A. in 1954 from the University of Saskatchewan after finishing public and high schools in Saskatoon. In 1957 he received his M.Sc. for his work on soil phosphorus reactions and plant growth. Professor MacKenzie then went to Cornell and his Ph.D. was conferred on him in 1959.

Professor MacKenzie comes to Mac with a great deal of practical experience with the Federal Department of Agriculture, and field work in Saskatchewan. He also spent three years with the Department of Soil Science at O.A.C. working on soil phosphorus, plant nutrition, clay mineralogy, and he also lectured there.

Professor MacKenzie is married and has two children. His wife is from Turtleford Saskatchewan. She got her B.Ed. from the U. of S.

We of Mac wish Professor MacKenzie the best of luck in his work and hope that he will enjoy life at Macdonald.

H. T.

PROF. WALDERON

Mr. M. Walderon is our new man in the Extension Service. He was born in Sauyerville, Quebec. He came to Mac as a Dip and continued to get his degree in '59. He then moved on to the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Extension Service. He has spent some of his time as a C.B.C. farm commentator working out of Toronto and Windsor. He was then promoted to the region farm supervisor in Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. Walderon is married to Home Economist from the University of Manitoba.

Mr. Walderon will be working on the Macdonald Farm Journal, the Quebec radio forum. He will also be lecturing in extension work and looking after publication work.

A point of interest to the students at Mac is that Mr. Walderon was the President of the College Royal as well as President of the Gold Key Society while he was here at Mac. We of Mac wish Mr. Walderon the best of luck in his work and that he will enjoy his return to Mac.

EDITORIALS . . . . . COMMENTS

While the Students Council has been doing an excellent job, and we have no reason to suppose that they will not continue to do so, we feel that some measure of criticism is in order.

This criticism we level at the handling of the Presidency of the Student Recreation Center.

As it stands now, the President of the Recreation Center is on a four months leave of absence, necessitated by his academic standing.

The appointing of a temporary president is a direct violation of the constitution. The position of the President of the Recreation, by the constitution, is decided by ballot. The entire student body votes on this matter on the fourteenth day following the spring Students Council elections. This was done last spring. A president was elected. But when his academic standing necessitated the vacancy of this position, the issue should have been decided in the fall students Society elections. Why this was not done, we do not know!

The Student Council contends that they have the right to do this by the power of the McGill Senate. They have by it, power to control all student activities that receive their support.

The reason for this action was that it was necessary for many things to be done during the summer months, and these could not be done with an absentee president. We agree, but what has the summer picture got to do with the fall election? It would be to the councils advantage to have a permanent president of the Recreation Centre.

While the action taken by the Students Council may prove right in the final analysis, we believe that the constitution should not have been by-passed in the manner it was.

to the editor

Dear Sir:

Re: editorial of October 12th. You regret that there is not an abundance of intellectuals on campus, and that more students are not attempting to stem this undesirable condition. This leads to two criticisms.

(1) How can one strain oneself to the limit, in order to "glean all the facts and thoughts that are possible" here at Macdonald? I suggest that you draw up a list of all the extra-curricular activities on campus available to students, and you will find yourself with as many reasons why the "strain to learn" is not as dominant as it could be. I am not saying that the whole idea is impossible—just vague in concept and inhibited in process. In conclusion, only students with fortitude and strong convictions have the ability to strain to learn. Even so, they are looked upon as "squares" or as being anti-social, both of which are rejected in theory if not in practice, by those who are "in." Who is right? You and what you actually practice, or your editorial and what you think?

(2) Forget the idea of the well-rounded individual. It cannot be done in two years at college, or in four or six years. Only after one is vulnerable and exposed to the world at large, not just the academic world, or just the practical world, but both, can one hope to become a well-rounded individual.

Tony BROSCOMB

My Dear Mr. Knox:

Never having been subjected to the "bona fide" initiation as most collegians know it, I do not see how you can write on the subject with such authority as is evident in your column. Had you been subjected to the kind of initiation the freshmen of '61 suffered through, you would feel more humble within yourself. You would also refrain from derogatory criticisms which you have sighted-in on this year's freshmen.

We saw you, last year's freshmen, in exactly the same light as you see this year's, except that we had the right to do so—and you don't. We went through initiation—you didn't.

In conclusion, I must add that you people, as last year's freshmen, were a group of senile, self-sufficient, and self-satisfied do-gooders, of which less than 40% turned out at elections, meetings, and other assorted student functions (with the exception of amusement functions—dances, etc.) which demanded your time and abilities. Compare yourselves with this year's freshmen, and be prepared to feel ashamed of the comparison.

Sincerely yours,
Tony BROSCOMB.

Dear Sir,

It is about time that something is done about the dress regulation during meals. Lately, there have been a number of students who have been covering the absence of ties. The House Committee has become very slack in this department. In the future, the fines should be imposed. Better still would be a revision of the rule. It should leave meals during the week as any breakfast or lunch is now and make the Sunday meals compulsory suit and tie affairs. Here is hoping that there will be an improvement in the situation in the very near future.

Yours truly,
H.T.

Dear Mr. Knox,

In last week's Points to Ponder, you referred to a "slenderous" attack made upon your person by Mr. Crabb. I would strongly recommend that you look up the true meaning of the word in a dictionary. It might prove enlightening, for its meaning does not cover Mr. Crabb's letter. Secondly, I want to rebut the final paragraph in your reply to Mr. Crabb which reads as follows: "Although you elected to run me into the ground personally (which, though rather resenting, I took in good humour), I trust you will appreciate my response which is aimed solely at the letter and its misleading content."

In rebuttal: (1) I cannot see where Mr. Crabb is running you into the ground; (2) You did take the letter in good humour (if you had, you would not have written to lengthy a reply); (3) I do not appreciate your response at all, you deserved all of what Mr. Crabb said to you; (4) The content of Mr. Crabb's letter was not misleading.

Pep Rally

By now, everyone should know of the big game here against the University of Sherbrooke. Starting time is 2:00 in the afternoon, and the team and the cheer leaders expect a big turnout. To insure a good turnout, a pep rally will be held on the steps of the main building at 7 o'clock tonight; so, let's whip up some enthusiasm and support the leaders of the rally. We lost the game at Bishop's because of lack of spirit, let's win it this week with spirit! The team support for the last couple of games has been nil, and it hasn't helped the team any. They will be a girl's football game have your support, DON'T LET THEM DOWN!

Following the pep rally, there will be a girl's football game (8 o'clock) and the girls think they can play a superior type of football to the boy's. Turn out and make your own conclusions, it should be quite entertaining.

CAMPUS CLIPPINGS

SIGN IN PLEASE: Supposedly, each student attending this college is here, first of all, because he wants to be here (this is not true in all cases) and secondly, because he has paid the required amount of money to the authorities thus allowing him to attend the classes in which he has registered. Is it not the student's right, if he so wishes, to be absent from one or any of the lectures, which for one reason or another do not appeal to him or have no significant value to him? Is it not his prerogative either to attend, take notes and pass or not to attend and still pass (or even fail for that matter)? The student has certain rights and privileges including, we all hope, a certain amount of freedom. It therefore seems autocratic to force him to attend lectures. An analogy can be made in that taxpayers are not forced to vote. Even though it is our duty to attend classes we are here mainly to learn how to conduct our own lives in the best possible way; and it is up to each individual to realize the importance of attending lectures as a necessary means of acquiring knowledge. We are no longer in high school. We shouldn't have to be babied any longer. Students should be given responsibility in order to develop on their own. By making it compulsory for them to attend lectures is a step in the wrong direction.

The preceding is merely a modest proposal by the writer and does not necessarily reflect the views held by the staff.

POINTS TO PONDER: The French Staff seems to be continuing with their PROPAGANDA PROGRAM; posters in Stewart Foyer regarding fire safety reading: Etouffez-le. They're really promoting this extrinsic motivation. It's about that DETECTIVE snooping around the campus during the past week; perhaps someone came up with a great idea to foster some college spirit — a crimewave. Oh by the way, before I forget, I would like to thank Mr. Crabb for the heart warming interest he took in writing me that WONDERFUL LETTER of a few weeks ago. It is nice to know that there is a little spirit around. Even though it did not appear, I signed the letter — IMPERSONALLY YOURS. I would like to wish a lot of luck to all concerned with the play CAESAR & CLEOPATRA; six weeks is not a very long time to prepare. However, I am led to understand that we are in for a great production. How about LIZ for the part of CLEO? That's nice money they are offering for a typist for the ROYAL; wish the Fair-ye would put me on a salary like that for my column. As it stands now I have to pay Brian to print it! Those LIBRARY TOURS are an excellent idea for people who are intending to use the facilities that are available. Better get your money in to your representative if you are intending to purchase a CLAN this year; the deadline is to-day. Some ridiculous rumours going around that PHYS ED wants to secede from TEACHERS; so what have they been doing all along? My God, more ELECTIONS to-day. There are people wondering just who writes the SPORTS COLUMNS which appear in this paper each week. What do you know — MAC AGGIES lost a game last week-end. Would someone mind telling me what "MEGT AT 224" means; it has been bothering me all week. Activities go overboard tomorrow with HOME COMING WEEK-END and a DANCE on Saturday night. Come to think of it, I haven't heard much about FRESHMAN DUTY this year; I don't wish to rehash a worn out subject but did they get away with that too? Where were all the Teachers at the TABLOID MEET on Wednesday? That BLACK CAT seen around the Coffee Shoppe could be a walking advertisement or a sign of bad luck; however, you could feed it, it seems starved. If anyone has seen my ASTROLAB lying around anywhere, let me know. I'm lost without it. Gosh, those printers are still making MISTAKES in my column. One would think what with all that PHOTOGRAPHIC EQUIPMENT at the disposal of this paper, the quality of the pictures would be better than it has been so far this year. Students are beginning to wonder where all their money has gone; possibly "MY BANK" could hand out "samples" to poor collegiates once in awhile. And remember kiddies, only fifty-five SHOPPING DAYS left until Christmas.

BEEF OF THE WEEK: Let's rally 'round the flag boys! Oh look, we don't have a flag! Or do we? If we do have one, why isn't it flying? Perhaps we are not really proud enough of this college and are too ashamed to display a banner for all to see and recognize. It seems that the only time our flag is flown (and it has been so long that I have forgotten what it looks like) is when some dignitary visits us. Come on someone, that main building looks pretty pathetic. It resembles a morgue more than a college. Let's see that flag displayed as it should be or know the reason it is kept out of sight.

McGILL OPEN

At the McGill open house on October 12 and 13, Macdonald College was represented by two displays. One, situated in the Physical Sciences building was jointly produced by the Faculty of Agriculture and School of Household Science. Another display was arranged by the Institute of Education in the Arts Building.

The display by Agriculture and Home Economics was arranged as a series of photos showing phases of research in the faculty. Cries of "the Farm's here!" were soon forgotten as many spectators commented on the variety of subjects other than farming covered by the Agriculture Faculty.

High School girls were surprised and a little awed to find that Household Science was not just following a recipe. The variety of careers open to graduates of the Agriculture and Home Economics faculties were presented, and again met with astonishment by the visitors.

Copies of the "Fair-ye-Times" were distributed, as well as pamphlets describing the courses available to students of Mac. To arouse the interest a little, lovely pictures of the campus were also on display.

Our President, Al Crowe, had this to say about the DISPLAY "... people were surprised at the multitude of fields open through the Science of Agriculture. Many people have always thought of Agriculture as a farming course, but it came as a shock when they realise exactly what Agriculture is".

Macdonald can take pride in the work done by the Gold Key members who helped in this display.

A hearty thank — you, and a vote of appreciation goes to Dr. Herb McRae, Mr. Philip Barker and Mr. M. Pirhoner for the time they spent and the work done on this display.

On the whole, I believe that Macdonald College was presented well, and that the public is now more aware of the position of the College in our university.

WAGONS FULL OF COTTON

Last night, in the Assembly Hall (not at Joe's), the class of 65' put on their play. Now they can relax and watch the other classes slave over theirs. They were clever in their choice of plays, choosing Tennessee Williams' "27 Wagons Full of Cotton" and only needing three people to sweat over lines.

The sound, scenery, and lighting were good. The only criticism I had of the above was the opening of each scene. The previous scene would close with the curtain open, the lights out, and no characters on stage. After five minutes, the sound effects would begin quietly amid the talking of the audience. Thus the whole effect was lost. It would have been better to put on one light to attract the attention of the crowd. I have nothing but praise for the lighting which was outstanding.

The actors were well cast, especially the three with the lead parts. The delivery was good throughout most of the play but at times the words were lost amid the laughter of the cast. Actually, I cannot blame them for laughing as it was very humorous. The play was enjoyable but it was not worth the time of missing telephone duty.

Last Chance

This is your last chance to get a copy of the 1963 Clan Macdonald. Some people erroneously seem to think that they can still buy their "Clan" in April. This is not so.

In previous years an order went to the printer which was in excess of the number of books ordered by the students. As a result, there were well over seventy '61 and '62 yearbooks sitting in our office this year. At $4.00 per book — the actual printing cost to us — this is quite an expensive, and wholly unnecessary carryover.

This year our printer is offering us $1.00 per page reduction in total price if we send in our order within the next few weeks.

Thus, in order to keep our costs down, we must take advantage of this offer and also avoid a costly carryover. If you have $3.00, and you want a yearbook, order one now. You won't regret doing so. Fill in the order form below or see your Clan Rep.

You can also order, separately, an 11" x 16" full colour picture, suitable for framing, of the main campus area for only $1.00. If you order or have ordered, a Clan, it will cost only $.75. The picture will be on display at the booth today.

Enclosed please find:

- $3.00 for one 1963 Clan only
- $3.75 for a Clan and an 11" x 16" coloured picture.
- $1.00 for an 11" x 16" coloured picture only.

Whatever became of:

Cleo Patra,

CLASS OF '49?

Voted by her year "The Girl We'd Most Like To Barge Down The Nile With", Miss Patra majored in Herpetology and was a leading light in our Drama Group. On graduation, Cleo first did a brother-sister act with her younger brother Ptolemy. For Ptolemy the bell tolled shortly thereafter. She then played the Capitol with Julius Caesar in The Pharaoh-Queen — but that production did not survive bad notices and the Ides of March. She next undertook a spectacular with Marc Antony and a cast of thousands of other fellows, but the rigours of the big battle, scene at Actium was too much for Antony. Cleo then, turning to her first love — Herpetology — discovered the asp — and vice versa.

ROYAL NOTES

By PAM CARTER

Well, the Macdonald College Royal is well on its way to becoming the biggest and best yet and although that same statement has probably been made of the Royal every year, this year's Royal will REALLY outdo all others Mac has known. The executive has been meeting weekly since the beginning of the term getting things prepared for the big day ahead — a day which promises to have something of real interest for everyone. Perhaps this would be a good opportunity to introduce the executive to you. Here's how things look :

president ..... Mike Marco first vice-president ..... Bev Hadley second vice-president ... Marinus Van de Sands secretary ..... Bib Simms treasurer ..... Bob MacKenzie
ART. I Page 4 ..... Darrell Wood director of Royal publicity ... Joe Knox assoc. dir. of Royal publicity Pam Carter director of Royal booths .... Ed Smith director of livestock show ... T.B.A. director of education displays Bill Alexander

Before I go any further I feel I should answer a question which I know to be in the minds of a great many students on this campus — both old and new. What is the Royal? Here is the whole story. As stated in section I article II of the Royal constitution, the purpose of the Royal is to give the general public an appreciation of the work being carried on by the Faculty of Agriculture, the School of Household Science and the Institute of Education. On the day of the Royal, Macdonald opens her doors to literally thousands of visitors from all around the Montreal area and beyond who come to see the innumerable displays set up.

An official date has not yet been established but the event will take place towards the end of February.

What can you see and do at the Royal? A good question! As well as the booth displays which will be found under the new dining hall, there will be numerous displays in the main building and actual labs in progress in the two science buildings. There will be gymnastic displays, square dancing competitions, livestock shows and fashion shows.

Everyone from all Faculties is urged to enter the many competitions including sewing and cooking — definitely for teachers as well as Home Ecs — and livestock showing. And if you don't think that's for teachers, just ask some of the soph teachers how much fun they had showing an animal last year. Almost as many awards went to Ed. students as to any others.

There will also be a chocolate cake competition for boys only, which never fails to produce barrels of fun and the occasional good looking cake. The day will be climaxed by a presentation of the awards given for the competitions and the annual production of the "Green and Gold".

Posters will soon be up listing the various classes of entries for the competitions so keep an eye peeled for them and sign up. You'll miss out on a lot of fun if you don't get in on some end of this Royal — believe me!!

We'll keep you informed weekly as to what is going on Royal — wise so watch for news and remember — The Royal for '63 depends on you!

TABLOID MEET

The annual tabloid athletic meet was held last week and, needless to say, it was a great success. There were many more teams competing this year than last, which attributed to its enjoyment and success.

In the men's section, Dave Pottinger emerged individual winner, while third year Agriculture took first place as a team. Their relay team, consisting of Dave Colpitts, Carleton Davies, Grant Colpitts and John Reed shattered the standing record set last year by the first year (now second year) Phys. Eds.

The second placed team was the second year Agriculture who were strong contenders right up to the end. Fred Forsythe and Don Badger were the "muscle men" of this team and almost led it to victory.

In third place came the forth year Agriculture and Post Grads who were somewhat disappointed in their showing since they won the whole thing last year. Their team was lacking greatly in that the track coach Lawrence Lowe did not compete for them and he is always good for 15 to 16 points. The second year Phys. Eds. obtained forth place and although they had the spirit they lacked ability. The name Phys. Eds. is not quite accurate as Brien Macpherson and Paul Saunders, a couple of teachers, were members of this team. Art Gaulty, Gary Macdonald and Euan Crabb were the strong men and carried most of the points. The team might have done much better if George Koski, ace track star, and Auggie and Pepsi had been able to participate. All in all, on the men's side of things everyone had a very good time.

The same can be said on the women's side of things. The first place went right down to the final count and, when the confusion had settled, the soph. Phys. Eds. walked off with the laurels. They had to really fight to beat the frosh Phys. Eds., but they finally came through. Donna Trenholm, the team captain, tied the high jump record with a graceful jump of 4'6" and generally helped the team in all the others. Linda Frassman was the team's big dash champ, along with Wendy Pitcher.

In second place came the first year Phys. Eds., who really gave the sophs a run for their money. They set two records: Bonnie Doward broke the old record in the 100-yard dash, set by Linda Fransham last year, with a time of 11.4 seconds. She set her record when competing against the second year Phys. Eds. (males) and she crossed the finish line in front of three of them (their names won't be mentioned). The other record which was shattered was the high jump and the performer was Jane Porter, who cleared the bar at 4'8".

The frosh Phys. Eds. second team grabbed third place and the Phys. Eds. seemed to make a clean sweep of the meet.

The entire success of the track meet was due to the hard work of Lillian Bouvette and Dan Grant, who were the co-ordinators, and also to the M.A.A. and the W.A.A. If the type of enthusiasm displayed by the college during the meet continues throughout the year, we have a good future in store for us. The teams were keen, the individual competitors were keen and the onlookers were keen. Let's preserve this and make this college a better place spirit-wise. It really needs it.

Women's Sports Round up

The annual Macdonald College Track and Field Meet was held this past Wednesday afternoon — and according to participants, officials and spectators, the meet was definitely a success. But, of course behind every success, there is always a handful of people to whom the credit belongs. In case of the tabloid meet these people are Lillian Bouvette and Dan Grant, the two co-ordinators for the meet, and the WAA and MAA.

The coveted first place standing was fought for right down to the last relay — the two chief contenders being freshman and sophomore Physical Education. No one could be sure of the final winners until the final scores were totalled.

The unofficial results are:

1st Place: Sophomore PE team no 1

- |                            |                    |
|----------------------------|--------------------|
| 1. Donna Trenholm, Captain | 6. Linda McKellar  |
| 2. Helen Barnak            | 7. Minna Uriash    |
| 3. Nancy Peters            | 8. Sandy Thompson  |
| 4. Sacha Walker            | 9. Pam Millinchamp |
| 5. Linda Fransham          | 10. Wendy Pitcher  |

2nd Place: Freshman PE team no 1

3rd Place: Freshman PE team no 2

- Three records were broken in the women's events. These were:
- |                                 |                      |
|---------------------------------|----------------------|
| 1. 100 yd. dash — Bonnie Doward | old record 11.9      |
| (PE 1)                          | new record 11.5      |
| 2. High jump — Jane Porter      | old record 4'7"      |
|                                 | new record 4'8"      |
| 3. Relay — Soph PE team 1       | old record 61.4 sec. |
|                                 | new record 60.5 sec. |

At the end of the meet, Lillian Bouvette, women's co-ordinator, said:

"I think that the participation was far better this year than last, as there were only 12 teams entered as compared to 21 teams this year. Everyone seemed to be enjoying themselves, and there certainly was a lot of spirit, which was very good. Congratulations to the winners and thank you to everyone who participated."

And congratulations to you, Lillian and Dan, for a well-prepared and an efficiently run Tabloid Meet.

FOOTBALL GAME: Mac vs U. of Sherbrooke

Mac Aggies face the University of Sherbrooke here at the college this Saturday afternoon: kickoff is at 2 o'clock. So come on out and support your team. They'll make the touchdowns if you are all there to make the noise.
